"EGYPT" INQUIRY CONTINUES.

LASCARS LACKED LIFEJACKETS.

LONDON, July 28.

The hearing of evidence was continued at the "Egypt" enquiry. A passenger named Randall said he thought the officers did the best they could.

Boatswain Gates testified that plenty of men attended to the port lifeboats. After the collision his boat on the starboard side could not put out owing to the heavy list.

A deck steward deposed that the lascars were absent for the lowering of the boats and under the circumstances the officers could not have done more. The natives' only idea was to save their skins.

Some of the firemen testified through an interpreter that they received no instructions where to go in the event of their being ordered to boat stations although it was understood that they had to assist in lowering a boat. Several native firemen testified that there were no lifejackets in their quarters. Two natives deposed that they were shot when they entered a boat. A lascar said he was allotted to number sixteen boat at the drill but got into another. The lascars' headman stated that the lascars asked the Captain for lifejackets but were told that there were none.

INQUIRY ADJOURNS.

LONDON, July 29.

The "Egypt" inquiry has adjourned to Monday.

GLOVE FABRIC GROUSE.

THE COMMITTEE'S INVESTIGATIONS.

LONDON, July 28.

The Fabric Gloves Committee estimate that sixteen million pounds of cotton yarns suitable for glove fabric are exported to Germany from the United Kingdom each year, employing 6,400 operatives. The yarn represented by the year's import of German fabric gloves represents the production of 550 operatives who would be rendered idle if the duty was stopped on importation except as far as the home manufacture of gloves has increased. The committee find it difficult to believe that German manufacturers will transfer orders for yarn to France and Switzerland both of whom impose duties on imported fabric gloves. They point out that the proposed duty will end on August 19, 1924 and may previously be revoked.

ANXIETY IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

LONDON, July, 28.

Advices from Athens confirm the reports of movements of troops in Thrace, where two new divisions have reached the front. General Hadjanesti, the Greek Commander-in-Chief, is with the armies in Thrace. The General Staff has moved up to the frontier in the neighbourhood of which a general offensive is preparing. There is anxiety in Constantinople and the Allied High Commissioners have drawn the attention of the Greek representative to these developments.

Deep-Seated Abscess in the Hip.

Remarkable Recovery after undergoing three operations without success.

Our Portrait is of Mrs. LAMBDON, of Mott's Mill, Withyham, Sussex, England, who writes:

"I am writing to tell you of the benefit I have received from your Clarke's Blood Mixture. I had a deep-seated abscess in my hip and was laid up about fourteen months not able to do anything. I was in hospital nine months and had three operations. Still I was no better, so I asked to come home. I had been home three weeks still feeling very ill, so I thought I would try your Clarke's Blood Mixture. The first bottle I used fetched the pus out more than ever, and by the time I had taken half the second bottle I began to feel better, and the discharge began to decrease. I persevered with the Mixture, and after a few weeks began to go about a little on crutches and feel stronger. Then I began to get stronger, and now I am feeling better than I have done for years. The abscess is quite healed—I can now do my work and walk quite a long distance with a stick. I am sure if people suffering the same as I was would give Clarke's Blood Mixture a fair trial it would do them good. You can make whatever use you like of this letter."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious. Of all Dealers—Ask for and see you get it.

NORWEGIAN ADVICE TO U.S.A.

"INCREASED BUSINESS ALL OVER THE WORLD."

REMARKABLE EXCHANGE RECOVERY.

"A solid, quiet steady improvement and an increased volume of business is taking place all over the world," said Sir Karl Knudsen, President of the Norwegian Chamber of Commerce in London, speaking at the annual meeting and house dinner at the Connaught Rooms.

Sir Karl went on to review the commercial position with broad optimism. He dwelt on the remarkable improvement in the Norwegian exchange. In September, last year, nearly 32 kroner were paid to the £. In May this year the kroner had actually appreciated to the extent of 24 to the £. This was surprising, but still more satisfactory was the fact that the £ in London was now worth 4½ dollars instead of 4 dollars. He thought they could congratulate themselves. It was certainly a matter for great satisfaction that the Norwegian traders and bankers had been able to stand such a sudden improvement in the exchange. Norwegian currency was not at all inflated to-day. If they looked at trade and finance all over the world they would note the figures exactly balanced—that was to say purchasing power and increased wages equalised out. All these engaged in trade to-day felt there was a renewed courage. They could not look forward to tremendous profits, but most of them were ready to settle down to quiet work and settle the fortunes of the world.

Referring to shipbuilding, Sir Karl said that the very ambitious Norwegian shipbuilding programme had at last liquidated. In 1921 the adverse trade balance was 1,000,000,000 kroner lower than in 1920. They were no longer importing new ships, and he believed it would not be long before all the adverse balance was wiped out. Referring to social experiments in Norway and new legislation for settling trade disputes, he declared that all traders agreed that the less Government interference they had in trade the sounder would be its development. The leaders of industry and banking in Norway and England had shown courage and ability in dealing with the situation, for which everyone should be truly grateful. The Norwegian exchange would not fluctuate now, because the kroner was definitely on the road to the gold value.

ADVICE TO AMERICA.

The unemployed problem could only be solved by realising the rules of international trade. Those to whom they owed money must realise that unless they bought they could not hope to sell. America must buy goods in Europe, and must accept the services of Europe if she expected to get the benefit of the loans she had made to European countries. (Hear, hear.)

As for the position of the Norwegian Chamber of Commerce in London, Sir Karl said that expenditure exceeded income last year by £971; but there was no need to be anxious about that. They had moved into Norway House, and that expense was a capital one only. It only took a small sum from the reserve; and the Chamber had a general fund of £14,800, which was a position they hardly dared to aspire to a few years ago. (Hear, hear.)

PRESENTATION TO MR. JORGENSEN.

Amidst cordial acclamation the president then presented a very fine portrait and an illuminated address from the members to Mr. J. Jorgensen, who has been president of the Chamber, with but a short interruption, from 1906 to 1921. He paid a warm tribute to all Mr. Jorgensen had done to build up Anglo-Norwegian relationships.

Mr. Jorgensen suitably responded for the gifts, and the expression of good feelings from those present.

Messrs. W. Capjon, O. Christopherssen J. Frederiksen and Leif Andr. Olsen, retiring members of the council, were re-elected.

BLAZON TYPE NOT NECESSARY

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy needs no glaring headline to attract the public eye. The simple statement that all chemists sell it is sufficient, as every fan knows its value. It has been used for forty years and is just what its name implies. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

PLEADED IN VAIN

WIFE'S EARNEST APPEAL REJECTED.

How a colonel rejected his wife's earnest plea for reconciliation was told in the Divorce Court during the hearing of the petition for a restitution decree brought by Mrs. Ethel Allanson, of Connaught-square, London, against Lt.-Col. Cecil John Lyons Allanson.

Married in 1916, petitioner said that in 1920 her husband was ordered to India. She wrote him every week, and in October last, on getting some information, sent this letter:—

Cecil Dear,—I am very unhappy and you must tell me something definite about the future. I can't believe you no longer care for me and never wish to return.

Do please write and tell me what you are thinking and feeling, because anything is better than suspense.

Why could not I meet you at Marseilles in March and we could stay somewhere on the Riviera for a bit before coming home? Or I could let this house and we could take one near some links and have a real golfing holiday.

Things can't possibly go on as they are, and if these suggestions do not appeal to you do, at any rate, write and tell me that you mean to come back and live with me and make a happy home like it used to be when we were first married.

This surely is the least I can ask of you and I shall await so anxiously a reply.

The reply ran:—

Dear Ethel,—I got your letter safely. I am afraid that it is quite impossible for me ever to return to you and make my home with you. It is better that I should be absolutely frank and tell you that I shall never live with you again.

I have not come to this decision precipitately, and very much as I regret any pain it will give you there is no chance of my ever altering it.—Yours, Cecil.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE IRISH SITUATION.

LONDON, July 27th.

The Irregulars destroyed Marconi's great wireless station at Clifden, burning down the receiving station and bombing the condenser house. Transatlantic traffic has been transferred to the Ongar Station, Essex.

LONDON, July 27th.

An official statement issued in Dublin, proroguing Parliament to August 8th, says the rapid progress of the National forces in the West and in Munster, encourages the hope that organised resistance by the Irregulars will be broken within a fortnight, and no further postponement of Parliament will be necessary.

It mentions that five ministers and sixteen members of the Dail are engaged in the suppression of disorder.

DUBLIN, July 27th.

The Nationals captured Westport, County Mayo, after combined land and sea operations. The Irregulars fled to the surrounding country.

THE U.S. COAL STRIKE.

NEW YORK, July 27th.

Lewis, the leader of the striking coalminers, predicts that an inter-state joint conference will be arranged in a few days time, which will permit the resumption of mining.

THE U.S. RAILWAY STRIKE.

NEW YORK, July 27th.

Mr. Cuyler, Chairman of the Railway Executives, after conferring with President Harding last night, announces that a meeting of executives of all the railways in the United States will be held at New York on Tuesday.

THE DUTY ON FABRIC GLOVES.

LONDON, July 27th.

The report of the Board of Trade Committee, on the effect of the application of part two of the Safe-Guarding of Industries Act to fabric gloves and glove fabrics manufactured in Germany, upon employment in the fine cotton-spinning industry in the United Kingdom, concludes that in view of the present exceptional circumstances, and the strictly limited duration of the proposed order, there is no reasonable ground for believing that it would reduce such employment.

WORLD'S LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

JERSEY CITY, July 27th.

In a twelve round contest, Benny Leonard retained the World Lightweight Championship against Lew Tendler. The match resulted in no decision.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CHINA ASSOCIATION.

LONDON, July 27th.

Presiding at the annual meeting of the China Association, Mr. D. Landale said, except where fighting had been occurring, trade in China had flourished wonderfully. It might be said that Municipal Government in many great cities and Local Government generally, had been good. Great improvement would result if the people of China could rid themselves of Military Governors—who wasted the country's money on the upkeep of armies for their own personal aggrandisement—and replace them by Civil Governors.

The coming together of the North and South, if it proved permanent, was a great step towards the unification and establishment of a Central Government. The political position appeared much more hopeful than for many years. China was to be congratulated on the Washington Conference decisions, and the return of Wei-hai-wei should result in no hardship to those who are engaged in trade at the port, provided it was recognised as a treaty port and kept open to foreign trade.

He thought that many who had written on the subject of education of Chinese in this country, had overlooked altogether the work of the Hongkong University.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR FAMILY.

When you fail to provide your family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy at this season of the year, you are neglecting them, as bowel complaint is sure to be prevalent and it is too dangerous a malady to be trifled with. This is especially true if there are children in the family. A dose or two of this remedy will place the trouble within control and perhaps save a life, or at least a doctor's bill. TRUTH. JUSTICE. PUBLIC SPIRIT.

HONGKONG SATURDAY, JULY 29 1922

ADVERSARIA.

LIFE'S LITTLE WORRIES.

I had occasion to send a registered letter, for which purpose I bought a special envelope supplied by the Post Office Department. It was a good, tough envelope, and the flap was well gummed. I placed confidence in it. Then the youth behind the bars said I must seal it in three places, with a private seal; and I went away sorrowing, for I had no private seal. I believe my ancestors had, but the last three generations have not used seals. The adhesive wafer supplanted wax, and the adhesive envelope supplanted the wafer, and I had almost forgotten what sealing wax was like. I could not seal the thing with a new dime I had, because, obviously, the design on a dime is public—it is not a seal private to myself. I tried a wood block, but the wax stuck to it. Eventually I sealed the seals with the buckle of my belt, which seems a private sort of thing, and it was accepted. Now, I am of opinion that very few people nowadays are likely to have private seals. To get one made in order to send perhaps one registered letter in a decade seems superfluous, somehow. I do not think wax in any case, offers the security claimed for it. I have heard that a hot thin blade can lift the seal in a condition to allow of its replacement. But assuming that the Department thinks wax necessary, I wish it would do the waxing and sealing itself, and charge for it. To chase a man out into the twentieth century world looking for a private seal is a heartless sort of proceeding.

BEAUTIFUL SURREY

In the June number of the "Overseas" magazine the frontispiece is a pretty picture of Abinger Hammer, a place I mentioned in my recent tramping sketches. I do not know how people can carry on looking at the pictures in "Overseas." They make me homesick.

A WILDE REMARK

Oscar Wilde in one of his stories said: "If one puts forward an idea to a true Englishman—always a rash thing to do—he never dreams of considering whether the idea is right or wrong. The one thing he considers of any importance is whether one believes it oneself"—that is, whether he personally desires to believe it. The quotation is recalled by the reception in certain quarters of two of this week's China Mail leaders, the one on "Cruelty to Animals," and the one on "Is Labour a Commodity." In each there was an idea, but in each case current prejudices were shocked.

BOOKS AND FOOLS.

Have you noticed when you see a man reading a book on a tram or in a train how restless you are until you have seen what it is that he is reading? It is a bit of inquisitiveness of which no one feels ashamed. Indeed, "what are you reading?" is accounted a legitimate question among acquaintances. It never annoys me, if the party be satisfied with the information; but his ensuing comments frequently enrage me. There is a type of omniscient and infallible ass whose talk of books amounts to conduct calculated to provoke a breach of the peace. On one occasion on board ship I had to confess that I was reading Darwin on coral reefs. "Darwin! Do you read Darwin? Don't you know that Darwin has long been discredited? I've never read him myself, and never will. If I had my way I would destroy all his books. They exercise a demoralizing influence. Materialism is the bane of the age." He was, of course, a missionary; but my conscience still pricks me because I neglected the obvious duty of throwing him overboard.

MALAYA.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank in Singapore has lowered its rate of interest on fixed deposits to three per cent. This is an indication of how bad things are in Malaya. Those with money cannot invest it in the usual ways. Another indication is the remarkable rise in the market quotations for Government loans.

HONGKONG INFANTS.

I take a clean sheet of paper on which to write beautifully about the sweet innocence of babyhood. How charming are these infants of tender years, how engaging their prattle. How . . . But just here a bystander reports to me faithfully something he actually heard on a hill road in Hongkong. A thin youth aged six was hailing a fat youth aged five. "Look out, Fatty Arbuckle," said the mite, "here's your b——amah."

A CLEVER PARODY

I paste this in the hope that you'll enjoy it as I did. It is a well known lyric by Ben Jonson, rewritten "in accordance with the Eighteenth Amendment, U.S.A."

Drink to me only with thine eyes,
For thou must guess again
If thou hast any wild surmise
Of contraband champagne;
The thirst that from thy soul doth rise
Doth look to me in vain;
I cannot, darling, put thee wise—
Gone every drop and drain.

I sent thee late a quart of rye,
By so much pitying thee—
Which thou didst scarcely breathe upon
Ere it had ceased to be—
Not giving thee the hope that I
Had other quarts for thee;
Thou sent'st the empty bottle back,
Without a smell for me.
With Old Tom gin at fifteen per,
And Scotch at twenty five,
We'll have to find some other way,
Beloved, to survive;
A kiss within the cup, indeed,
Dead poets may revive,
But living bards need stronger stuff,
Dear coz, to keep alive.

Might I a hooker swift and straight
Adowa my gullet pour,
Then with a heart for any fate,
I'd promptly call for more;
Or might I Ebret's nectar sip,
I'd ask no drink divine;
If but upon the cup my lip—
I would not ask for thine.

OUR HONGKONG SUMMERS

Some men long for fame, many for money; others have various ambitions. You'd never guess mine, it is so modest. It is that I might live through one month of our Hongkong summer without having to blow my nose, or swallow cough mixtures. A modest desire I called it but is it? Summer colds seem numerous enough among my acquaintances, and perhaps they have to be. Perhaps they are as inevitable as measles in childhood. I forget what measles were like, but it seems to be I'd rather have a beastle thad this dab duisads.

RICSHA AUTHORITIES

Just a reminder. We were to have good tyres and clean covers on our ricshas, and so we did for a time. The usual thing is happening. Possibly supervision has slackened. Perhaps the officer responsible is away on leave. May be I've been unlucky in my observations. But I seem to have noticed more badly worn tyres and more filthy covers than the other sort lately. Will someone kindly check my audit?

TOONY AMAH

An expression used by Chinese in vulgar abuse, which I have seen interpreted as "your mother is a grass widow." Which recalls the ancient jape that defines a grass widow as a married lady who has no use for weeds, but likes to make hay while the sun shines.

SCOTS ACCENT.

I have always loved the Scots accent. There is something endearing about it. It is musical. But I think I never admired it so much as when walking one day this week. One of those playful motorists who, with the full width of the highway available, delight to brush a pedestrian's elbow in the hope of scaring him, whizzed by him from behind. I may not report verbatim the things he said. They were too eloquent for print. I admired, I envied, I endorsed all he said. One of his phrases struck me as remarkable. He spoke of the motorist's "foolish, fulvous face." That was apt. It was le mot juste, the rare and close epithet that lightens gloom and eases suffering.

NOT VERY ANCIENT HISTORY

I saw in the Daily Press that Mr. Lauritsen had been telling the interviewer about the early days of motoring in Hongkong. I rode in a motor car here long before the earliest year he mentioned. I didn't ride far, because on the Praya East, just beyond the Corinthian Yacht Club, the car turned suddenly to the left and dived off the wall into the sea. With swift visions of the car turning over and pinning me down, I did my own record dive, leaping out as we went over, and swimming under water until I couldn't hold wind any longer. When I emerged I saw the back end of the car well out of the water, and my companion hanging on to it. He explained that the steering gear had gone wrong. Personally I'm an old fogie in this matter, and in full sympathy with all who tried to discourage the motor car from coming here. The world is wide. They could have afforded to leave us one peaceful haven. My main objection to motors is the change they will effect in literature. We will be getting stories like this now.

". . . . Night had fallen, the traveller could not see, and was hopelessly lost. All he could do was to throw the steering wheel on the faithful motor's back, and leave its wonderful homing instinct to find the right road."

Or like this one:

". . . . He had been thrown, or had fallen, from his Ford. He was quite dead when found, and the finders report that the affectionate flivver refused to leave the body, but stood over it in a protecting manner."

WRONG PHRASE

I see in a Shanghai paper the headline "Road hogs ad lib." Hardly ad lib., surely? Ad nauseam would be more appropriate.

THE SENSE OF FUN

Henri Bergson wrote a book full of the most atrocious piffle about laughter. I see that Max Eastman has written a counterblast, in a book called "The Sense of Humour" (Scribner. 10s. 6d.). That's good. The Times reviewer deals as fairly with it as he can; but I see that he is weak in the fundamentals, just as Bergson was. He quotes Freud as saying that a joke is a means of releasing suppressed motives, usually sexual, from the unconscious and of giving them harmless vent. He goes on: "He is a man of genius; and no doubt he gives the true reason why many people enjoy improper stories, but what they usually enjoy is the impropriety rather than the fun." That is the dumbest of dum thinking. Why do we enjoy impropriety? Because impropriety, when so enjoyed, is fun. Fun out of place and season is an impropriety we do not enjoy, and we complain of the funning one's perverted sense of humour. I draw a distinction between the sense of humour and the sense of fun. The sense of fun is universal and elemental. Every one has it. Like the sense of beauty, it must find vent, and any available material serves. We do not speak of "the staple food of mankind" because different races have different staples, chosen for them by conditions. The sense of humour is a particular staple food of the general sense of fun. It must feed; it takes the food that habit and convenience provide. One man's fun is another man's annoyance; and one man's annoyance is quite often other men's fun. To say of a man that he has "no sense of humour" ultimately means only that his staple is not yours. To say of a man that he has no sense of fun would be a stupid lie, because it is an ingredient of human nature, just as admiration of beauty is. Man must regard something as beautiful, wherever he be. So we say that tastes vary, which means that the staple food of the appetite for beauty is also conditioned. The mind is preoccupied with sex, so no explanation is required of the fact that the appetite for fun feeds on what this reviewer meant by impropriety. The appetite for pornography is not the appetite for fun, but a very different thing. The sex-starved soul gloating over pornographic stuff does not laugh. It ravens. Consequently, though a smoke-room story may be somewhat "dirty" (i.e. improper) its laughing teller and his laughing hearers are after the fun of it, and not the filth. In short, they are indulging the impulse that laughs, rather than the very different impulse that craves lascivious excitement. Very often we fail to see where the fun is, but that only repeats the proof that sense of humour varies, while the sense of fun does not. Men may argue their respective preferences for apples or for oranges, but they never quarrel about the merit of fruit as fruit. They may differ as to what things seem funny, but they agree that the quality of funnyness exists somewhere.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Once, in a place very like Hongkong, although I beg you to believe that I am not meaning Hongkong, there was a keen but small attempt to arouse and interest public opinion in civic and kindred matters. It had a committee. At first it was composed of young or youngish men, who had been thinking. It was like unto a brave green plant that comes up in the early spring. It looked healthy. But a frost came and nipped it. One by one the pushing young men seemed to lose interest. They became strangely silent about things on which they were known to feel deeply. This was discretion, not apathy. It was Fear, which is worse than Fire when one wants to insure Good Works. Somehow the idea spread that the junior who talked too much was apt to get the Sack. The frost figure must now be discarded. Our little sociological society did not perish as a plant that is nipped. It still had a committee; but now most of them were taipans, excellently skilled in the passing of pious resolutions which resolved nothing. The dog was still a dog, but it was muzzled. The fortress was still a fortress but it was in the hands of the enemy. The reform committee was still a committee, but a committee that did not desire reforms. The juniors saw that it was good to back up the opinions of the Taipans, or at least that it was unhealthy not to. It was understood that it was not good for young business men to show interest in public affairs. (I tell you again I am not talking of Hongkong.) The proper lines for a junior commercial man were clearly understood to be work (within reason) outdoor sport, and the other usual recreations of a spirited, woolly-minded young rabbit. That is how it was that Respectability inundated the committee, and (as it were) castrated it so that there was no longer the slightest possible objection to it. It was no longer likely to interfere. So that is why the place so like Hongkong remained so like Hongkong, because the younglings that did think for a little while belonged to the Ancient Order of Wurrums.

THE SKULL.

Sensation, says the reporter, attended the production of a human skull in a police court case this week. They are not pretty objects, but formerly were valued as remembrancers. "As you are now, so once was I. As I am now, so you will be." There is an old inscription in Happy Valley to that effect, though I cannot remember the wording. Plutarch tells us that at an Egyptian banquet a servant brought in a skeleton and cried to the guests, 'Eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow you die." There is a reference to this in Byron's "Don Juan," "Like skulls at Memphian banquets." It might not be a bad idea to put up skulls at all our street corners, with a legend to to this effect: "As you may be, unless you do your bit to discourage the traffic in arms." And (in time of preparing for war) "All that is left of the tools of the professional politicians." Also (near the stock exchanges) "What shall it profit you?" The "grin" of a skull is dreadfully satirical.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. A. N. Lucey goes on the list of authorized architects.

Mr. N. L. Smith is to look after the prisons while Mr. Franks is away.

Mr. C. M. Ede is gazetted as taking Mr. Pollock's place on the Executive Council.

The librarian of the Supreme Court who has been in that position for eighteen years died during the week from influenza.

In consequence of the strike of cargo boat men the Indo China s. s. "Yuen Sang" is tied up at the Osaka Shosen Kaisha Wharf.

The Indian Recreation Club's "At Home" fixed for to day is "off." The weather is too bad. See Mr. Rumjahn's official notice in to-day's advertisements.

Suffering from injuries received through a fall while attempting to board an Aberdeen bus, in Pokfulum Road, a coolie employed at "Nazaret," the French Mission's Sanatorium, was yesterday removed to the hospital.

A 16-year old Chinese boy was yesterday admitted to the hospital suffering from injuries to his head received through being knocked down by the Revenue Department motor van No 1, near the Central Market. The injuries are not serious.

Two factions of Kowloon ricsha coolies had a fight in Canton Road, yesterday. Poles and stones were used. Heads were broken and blood flowed freely. One man was so badly injured that he had to be taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital by the police.

Negotiations are still proceeding between the parties concerned and the Secretary for Chinese Affairs for the settlement of the cargo-men's dispute. Although no settlement has yet been reached it is hoped that matters will progress considerably during the week end.

"Peeping into the Editorial cubby hole the other day" writes the Topicist in the Singapore Free Press, the Topicist espied his learned colleague tearing up a trenchant article entitled "Why make friends with the Germans." He had just learned that some of the beer drunk at the ESMA's dinner, a while ago was of the throughgoing German brand, and he had rightly concluded that if the gallant warriors of the war could stomach the Hun liquors, it was not for him to preach on the need for a dry and frigid reception of Hans Winkelstein and Co. when he returns once more to these shores.

THE CORONET.

The last screening of "Everywoman" will take place at the Coronet on Sunday. Monday's programme will feature Blanche Sweet and Harold Lloyd in a couple of tip-top comedies and a film of the 1922 Derby with slow motion pictures of the finish.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

THE FAIRY SHIP.

"I saw a ship a-sailing a-sailing on the sea,
And oh! it was so laden with pretty things for me,
There were comfits in the cabin and apples in the hold,
The sails were made of satin and the mast was made of gold.

The four and twenty sailors that stood between the decks
Were four and twenty white mice with rings about their necks,
The captain was a duck, a duck, with a jacket on his back,
And when the fairy ship set sail, the captain he said "Quack"

This was one of the favourite songs of a little princess called Radiance When she was a tiny baby the Court musicians played it to her and at once she clapped her hands and cried for more and even when she was a big girl of seven she still asked for it to be played.

"I should like to see that fairy ship," she said to her Lady in-Waiting, who was called Marianne, "Shall we go down to the sea and look for it?"

For she lived in a beautiful palace on an island and they had often gone to the water's edge and looked out for the fairy ship though for Marianne it was only a kind of game for she did not believe that they would ever really see it.

It was a misty autumn day and there was a haze over the sea and Marianne shivered a little as she sat on a rock while the Princess gazed out to sea.

"Come home again Princess," she urged, "It is too dull and chilly a day to sit out here."

But Radiance who was peering into the mist did not hear her, though the next minute she exclaimed, "Look Marianne, do you see something coming towards us near to the big cliffs?"

Marianne turned to look and—yes, sure enough, something was moving slowly towards them.

At first they could only see a grey mass, then as it drew nearer, it took on the form of a vessel and at last the Princess cried out,

"It is my own fairy ship at last!"

For now they could see plainly that the sails were made of satin and the mast was made of gold. Climbing up and down the ropes were some white mice and by the mast stood a big white duck wearing a blue jacket with bright gold buttons and on his head was an Admiral's cocked hat.

As the boat came near the shore Radiance cried, "I must sail with the fairy ship!" and started swimming towards it.

"Come back Princess," cried Marianne wringing her hands, for she could not swim and so was not able to follow her charge. "What will your father and mother do without you. Perhaps you will never return to them."

But her pleading was in vain for Radiance had nearly reached the side of the boat and the four and twenty white mice were throwing down a rope ladder by which she could climb on board.

Marianne ran as fast as she could to the palace calling for help but by that time the fairy ship had disappeared into the mist and though the King at once ordered boats to go out in search of her she was nowhere to be found.

* * *

A year passed by and the Queen had nearly given up hope of seeing her little daughter again.

Marianne went down to the seashore every day and sat for hours watching for her return.

And at last, when a year and a day had gone by, and it was again a dull misty morning the fairy ship returned and Radiance came swimming to shore and flung herself, dripping as she was, into the arms of her faithful friend.

"Oh Marianne," she cried, "I will never leave you again but it was a magic ship and it drew me to it and I had to go. We sailed away until we came to a beautiful island where there was no night but always bright sunlight. The whole place was covered with apple trees on which grew the reddest apples that you can imagine and the roots of these trees were made of comfits, yellow and red and white. The sailors filled up the hold and the cabin with them and then we sailed back again. But oh I am so tired of apples and comfits and I never want to see any more and though it was a wonderful journey and we went faster than the wind I will never leave you again."

Whether the fairy ship ever came near that island again was not known but it no longer had any magic power to draw Radiance to it and she lived for the rest of her days happily with the King and Queen and Marianne.

I could not quite understand by your letter whether you had meant to enter for the hidden trees one too but hardly think you can have done as you did not enclose the list and also your letter came after the competition was over. I am always glad to hear of new competitors.

WATER WORRY.

BASEBALL BATS AND BROKEN HEADS.

A quarrel over the drawing of water between the occupants of the ground and first floors of No. 10, Praya East, resulted in an affray which ended in a fatality, one of the contestants being killed, it was alleged, by a heavy blow on the head with a baseball bat.

The sequel was heard in Mr. R. E. Lindsell's Court yesterday afternoon when two youths appeared to answer a charge of manslaughter.

According to the case for the prosecution as outlined by Inspector Blackman the prisoners occupied the first floor of the house and the deceased was a foki of a Japanese curio shop on the ground floor. The trouble began because the shop people kept the taps running all the time the water was on, and the people on the other floors could not get a drop. There was trouble, and in the affray which followed the turning off of the taps on the ground floor by one of the young men living on the floor above, baseball bats, which were one of the lines of goods stocked by the Japanese shop, were caught up by at least two of the fighters and used freely on the others with the result that the deceased was fatally injured.

It was quite evident that the defendants were not entirely the aggressors in the affray, for one of them had a bandaged-up head, and the other wore a shirt covered with blood.

Their story was that one of the witnesses for the prosecution and the deceased attacked them and they were unlucky enough to be arrested just as they had got the baseball bats away from their assailants in order to save themselves from further injury.

The principal witness for the prosecution admitted that the second defendant was the first to complain and asked the police man to arrest him (the witness).

The Magistrate: The second defendant had a broken head at the time.—in fact it is still broken.

Witness: My head was also very damaged.

How was the defendant's head broken?

I do not know. It may have been broken by the deceased, who picked up one of the clubs.

Oh! the deceased picked up a club?—You didn't?—I had nothing in hand.

And yet this man was fighting with you and not with the deceased; funny isn't it?—These three shops communicate and I ran over there.

Whatever answer is that? How did the second man's head get broken?—Possibly I may have hit his head with my arm in endeavouring to ward off a blow.

The Magistrate: You broke his head with your elbow, in fact; and so badly that it is still broken?—You are not even a good liar!

After a carpenter had given a clearer account of the affray, and Dr. D. J. Valentine had described the deceased's injuries, the Magistrate decided to reduce the charge against the second defendant to one of disorderly conduct.

The hearing was then adjourned.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

POPULAR POLICE INSPECTOR RETIRES.

Senior Detective Inspector James J. Watt, one of the best known and most popular members of the Hongkong Police Force, is severing his connection with the Colony after nearly 25 years' residence here. He sails for Home by the s.s. "Kashgar" to morrow on well earned pension.

James J., as he is affectionately called by his numerious friends, was 46 years of age last January, and is a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, where he was a member of the Aberdeen City Police for two years prior to joining the local force in February 3, 1898.

He sailed from Blighty in Novmber 1897 with four other recruits for the Police Force, the only remaining one of which after James J's retirement will be Inspector W. G. Gerrard in charge of the Police Training School. The others are Mr. J. Noble, who is now owner of the Kalgan Dairy Farm at Shanghai; Mr. W. Cameron, who owns a hiring establishment at Grays, Essex; and Mr. W. Ritchie, who is a prosperous rancher in New Zealand.

Starting in the Force as a young constable, James J. soon attracted the attention of his superiors as an intelligent and capable officer and promotion came to him rapidly. He was promoted Lance Sergeant on February 1, 1900, and on January 1, of the following year, eleven months later, he was made a full Sergeant. Ten years later, May 13, 1911, saw him promoted to 3rd Class Inspector and a few months later, on January 1, 1912, promotion again came his way and he was made 2nd Class Inspector, ultimately reaching his seniority as 1st Class Inspector on June 16 1914.

Inspector Watt who had been stationed at nearly every district in the Colony, knowing every inch of the soil, had been for many years on the Detective Staff in which he was Chief Detective Inspector Murison's right hand man. He is also a good Chinese scholar, holding first class certificates for Cantonese and Hakka. In his capacity as Senior Detective Inspector, James J. had charge of all extradition cases which he very ably handled. The last case he was connected with was that of the kidnapper Chan Kwai-sang who was charged at the last Crimitial Sessions. For valuable services rendered in connection with some very intricate cases, Inspector Watt was awarded the 3rd and 4th Class Police Medals.

At Police Headquarters yesterday, Inspector Watt was honoured by his brother officers and presented with a beautiful silver tea service and a suitably inscribed silver inlaid blackwood tray.

In making the presentation Inspector Gerrard spoke in glowing terms of James J.s sterling qualities as a colleague and a friend, and remarked touchingly as to how keenly he felt his position as the only remaining member of the five who left the "good old country" together in '97, to do duty together in this distant outpost of the Empire. Time had flown and there had been many changes during the 25 years. The five had been separated, but he was pleased to think that their friendship had lasted throughout the quarter century and was now very closely cemented. In conclusion, Inspector Gerrard wished James J. a happy reunion with his family, who had preceded him home two years ago, and hoped that he would live long to enjoy his well earned pension at Udny, in good old Aberdeen, where he intend to settle down.

Inspector Watt who was greatly affected by his old friend's words, replied suitably thanking his brother officers for their beautiful present which he and his family would greatly treasure as a connecting link with beautiful Hongkong, which he had learned to love almost like home. He reciprocated Inspector Gerrard's expressions of unfailing friendship and ended up by saying that if any of the gathering should happen to be in Udny, he hoped they would look him up for "auld lang syne," and he assured them that Mrs. Watt and himself would give them a right royal welcome.

"Our Chinese fellow citizens are greatly concerned over the trouble in Canton and gravely condemn the interference with business caused by it, and the resort to lawlessness writes Topicist. "The average of law-abiders among the Chinese is probably as high as in any nation, and their attitude confirms the impression that Bolshevism will not succeed in China. The question is where is Sun Yat Sen? It was reported that he was leaving for Hongkong. Once before, twenty years ago, Dr Sun resided quietly in Singapore for many months, not many knowing about it. From the fact that Dr. Lim Boon Keng is disposing of his house, it is presumed that the Amoy University is going to occupy all his attention. He was a Queen's scholar and his later career exemplifies the old saying that a prophet is not without honour, save in his own country.

OBITUARY.

MR. L. G. BAPTISTA.

The death occurred at the family residence, No. 25, Caine Road, early yesterday morning, of Mr. Luiz Gonzaga Baptista, the youngest son of Mr. M. A. Baptista, after a long and painful illness.

The young man who was only 21 years of age at the time of his death, was one of the fortunate survivors of the disastrous Racecourse fire in 1918, but the shock which he had received undermined his health, and he sank gradually until a few months ago when he was confined to his bed as an invalid.

The deceased is a member of an old and well known local Portuguese family, the present head of which, and his father before him, have distinguished themselves in artistic circles, and both have painted sceneries for the City Hall. The younger members of the family have also shown promise with the brush, particularly the deceased and his brother, Mr. M. F. Baptista of Messrs. Shewan Tomes and Company, who was responsible for the firm's artistically executed Roll of Honour, and for the picturesque cover design of the Rock, the local Catholic magazine.

The deepest sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended to the father, brother, sisters and other relatives of the deceased in their sad bereavement.

The funeral took place at the Roman Catholic cemetery, Happy Valley, yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. There was a large collection of beautiful floral tributes.

CHURCH NOTES.

SEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY.

In to-morrow's Gospel we learn that the world is the battlefield of good and evil and either our bodies will be the servants of iniquity or servants of holiness. If we yield up our bodies to sin we become unwilling slaves to it, and in due time we shall receive our wages, death. But if we remember that God wants us to be temples of the Holy Ghost, we shall enter into a very different kind of slavery, giving ourselves in a voluntary surrender compelled by the hunger and necessity of love. In this kingdom there will be no wages, the first shall be last and the last first, but from God we shall receive the gift of everlasting life, the gift that Jesus bought for us as He hung once for all on the Cross of Calvary.

The story of the Gospel, the Feeding of the Four Thousand is familiar to all of us, with its healing message that Jesus is our Bread in this earthly wilderness.

They must have been very hungry in their bodies those dear people who had listened for three days to the words of Jesus—they did not heed the long fast, so hungry and thirsty were they for righteousness, waiting for Christ to fill them. And as He said of them in those days, He says of us to-day "I will not send you away hungry lest you faint by the way."

"O Food that weary pilgrims love
O Bread of Angel-hosts above
O Manna of the Saints,
The hungry soul would feed on Thee;
Ne'er may the heart unsolaced be
Which for Thy sweetness faints."

Many people seem to have been much disturbed in their minds by the wording of the Pekin Manifesto, but thoughtful churchmen see no cause for alarm but rather for rejoicing. The signs indicated in that document give one great hope for the future, though undoubtedly one can see that for a moment there is a strong anti-Christian feeling underlying the action of those Pekin students.

In what does the hope lie then? In the first place the issuing of such a declaration as the manifesto, shows that the students are interested about Christianity even though their criticism may seem hostile: antagonism is certainly a far healthier sign than the apathy with which some non-Christians treat our Faith.

Then also they appear to attack Christianity as being allied to principalities and powers and war and slavery, and though at first sight it seems as though our religion is or has been in the past closely connected with these things, a very brief survey of Christian fundamentals show that our religion and such things should not go together—in fact, it is through these and similar corruptions that our religion has been apt to lose its power, and if our Chinese brothers can make us wake up to the truth of this they will have done a service to the world. The Christ of the Gospels is certainly not the Christ of mediæval and modern days, and our Faith needs considerably purging before we can call ourselves truly Christians, as much as were those persecuted ones of early ages. Organised Christianity has only too often condoned corruptions of those in authority, instead of boldly rebuking vice, and it remains for the Church of the twentieth century to eradicate the evil. It is obvious that the drawers up of the manifesto are not atheists, for their utterances manifest a seeking after divine knowledge, though it is veiled. As a matter of fact it is doubtful whether any man is a real atheist, taking the term to mean absolute disbelief in the existence of God—a man may disassociate himself from all religious ideas, but he cannot absolutely deny the existence of God without acknowledging himself to have a comprehensive and exhaustive knowledge of the creation and preservation of the Universe, and no sane man can do that.

Our Chinese brothers, many of whom choose to call themselves atheists, are really searchers after truth, and they have managed to have put into their hands old volumes of atheistic literature which is fifty years behind the times. By a perusal of such literature one would imagine that all educated men had thrown over the idea of God as they learnt more about science—but this is not so. It is true that the scientific discoveries of last century caused a temporary storm in the minds of men, so that men like Haeckel had a large following, but closer examination has revealed the fact that science is the handmaid of religion and not the destroyer as was thought in days gone by. Sir Oliver Lodge, writing of Professor Haeckel, says, "The progress of thought has left him, as well as his great English exemplar, Herbert Spencer, somewhat high and dry, belated and stranded by the tide of opinion which has now begun to flow in another direction."

Nowadays the great scientists are avowedly Christian, and many have made statements to show the world this is so. For instance Lord Lister, a leader in Surgery, writes, "I have no hesitation in saying that in my opinion there is no antagonism between the religion of Jesus Christ and any fact scientifically established," and Lord Rayleigh, of world-wide scientific eminence, says, "In my opinion true Science and true Religion neither are nor could be opposed."

The fact remains that Young China has been having its mind poisoned against Christianity by some mischievous agents so that Chinese students are ready with all sorts of ridiculous questions about the legendary stories of the Old Testament and the theories of evolution. The properly instructed Christian of to-day does not trouble whether the earth was created in six ordinary days or whether Noah took two of every insect into the Ark, or whether the whale swallowed Jonah—nor does he worry about the question as to whether or not we are evolved from anthropoids: but he does care about God Whom he knows to be the Maker and Conserver of the Universe and he does put his trust in the Son of God, Jesus Christ, Who offered Himself for fallen man and now shows them the way through this world to a better one.

The Church in China needs to show a loving spirit with sacrifice following the example of the humility of Christ, being ready to witness as did His early followers, disassociated from the wealth and power of the world. It is only by getting back to the primitive ideals, as demonstrated in Apostolic times, that we can become a true missionary and convincing and converting Church.

It certainly means a great change in our religious thought and a holy repudiation of the powers that be, and if Young China is going to help to bring about these changes he will have done a powerful stroke in the history of religion.

Mr. Hickson, the missioner of spiritual healing is conducting missions during this month in various towns of South Africa. Reports of his work in India and China have created so much interest, that his Services are requested in all parts of the world.

The overtures between the Eastern and the English Church, aiming at a mutual understanding of one another, are at last beginning to point to some results.

Hitherto the parties and divergence of opinion in our Church have made the Eastern Church doubtful as to the central beliefs of English Churchmen, but now a document has been drawn together by a number of leading Anglicans, headed by Bishop Gore, stating what is the Faith for which we stand.

This declaration of faith, as it has been called, contains ten statements on such things as sacraments, councils and tradition of the Church, and commences with the following;

To His Holiness the Œcumenical Patriarch and the Holy Synod of the Great Church of Constantinople.

We, the undersigned, being priests of the English Church, earnestly desiring to promote an understanding with our brethren of the Eastern Orthodox Churches and rejoicing that in God's providence there are manifold evidences of the growth of sympathy and mutual love on both sides, now in all humility write to your Holiness and to the Holy Synod, in order to set forth plainly that which we hold to be the genuine teaching of the English Church on certain matters of faith, touching which we gather from the utterances of Eastern Orthodox hierarchs and theologians that they would welcome some explicit statement from us.

PROLETARIAN SCHOOLS.

TRAINING THE YOUNG.

A NATIONAL MENACE.

To those who have love of country and patriotism at heart, the knowledge will come as a shock that very determined efforts are being made by a certain class of extremists in the country to reduce our boys and girls to the condition of mind to which they have brought themselves says the London Daily Telegraph. The National Political League, in a leaflet just issued, directs particular attention to the grave danger which is threatening our boys and girls, and through them the whole Empire. It is pointed out that the Communist party have been allowed to organise a deliberate movement to exploit British children to such an extent that the movement is fast becoming a real danger to the democratic institutions of the country. From Soviet Russia children groups are already being directed in over forty countries. These groups are growing in numbers and in influence. "It is well," the Communist asserts, "in their tender years to wean children from the religion, morals, and hypocrisy of the Master class."

In Britain these Communist organisations have sprung up within the last three years, and must not be confused with the Socialist Sunday schools started in 1896, which do not aim at "Red" revolution, though in some of them extreme teaching prevailed from the first. In their own words: "We of the proletarian schools are pushing ahead and would like to see the whole Socialist Sunday school movement take on a revolutionary character"; and "We will no longer abstain from planting into the souls of our children the seeds of the revolutionary conception of life." . . "Where there exist no Communist children's groups we shall create them, and where there are Socialist children's groups we shall penetrate them and revolutionise them from within."

PROLETARIAN MAXIMS.

In these schools a deliberate training is given in order to rouse proletarian class consciousness of the worst kind. Blasphemous doctrines, sedition and class hatred are instilled into the minds of the children, who are definitely taught that Red revolution is their only goal. Religion is treated with derision and scorn. The Union Jack is for them a symbol of oppression and slavery. Here are some directions from the official handbook, "A Review of how to Open and Conduct a Proletarian School":

"To teach the children the ideal of Revolution—that should be the primary aim of a proletarian school." ....."Our songs should be songs breathing the spirit of the revolution."....."

"Such words as patriotism or love of country will die with the political state."

"A boy and girl should be taught a real live red-hot revolutionary speech, to take about ten minutes."

"Then why should we say it is love or spirit or souls or God that direct men and women in the right way? Such is not the case. . . . There is no soul or spirit as they (the capitalist class) conceive it. It does not exist."

"The priest teaches us our lesson of humility not for any fear of God in Heaven, but that he must carry out the wish of the master here below."

The basic doctrine of the school is officially founded on the ten proletarian maxims, from which the following are quoted:

2. Thou shalt not be a patriot, for a patriot is an international blackleg.

5. Thou shalt teach revolution, for revolution means the absolution of the present political State, the end of capitalism.

6. Thou shalt demand on behalf of your class the complete surrender of the capitalist class. . . .

7. Thou shalt wage the class war . . . the emancipation of the working class from wage slavery must be brought about by themselves

8. . . Thou shalt renounce craft unionism, work for the organisation of the working class into one vast industrial union to take and hold the means for life.

The danger signal lies not only in the number of these proletarian children's groups—they can now be counted in hundreds—but in the fact that the children are intended to act as missioners in the home, the playground, and the day school. Very many of them are purposely drawn from homes other than Communists', for they must educate their parents. Their influence over their play and school companions is even stronger, and so the poison spreads. Everything is made attractive—revolutionary games, acting, and stories play a large part.

BLASPHEMOUS TEACHING.

The blasphemous side is one of the gravest dangers. It is especially invidious in that religion is taught to be one of the chief weapons of oppression by the capitalists. Hatred and contempt of the "bourgeois class" is, indeed, closely interwoven in the irreligious teaching. The following extracts are from lessons in print actually given:

Christianity has been the most powerful 'safety valve' the bourgeois have ever called to their aid." . . . "That's why they subscribe to the Salvation Army—to tell the down trodden that they must be 'washed' in the Blood of the Lamb. The bourgeois not being poor has no need to be 'washed' in any kind of blood."

"There is no real God . . . there is no true God."

"Christ on the Cross dying for sinners is so ridiculous that one despairs of the hold this has on the working class." "It only means something to keep you docile. If it had not that effect they would try a machine-gun on you."

A most sinister aspect of this side of the teaching must not be overlooked—absence of decency and restraint on the moral side. Crude and irresponsible treatment of sex is noticeable. In Russia such deliberate removal from the children of restraint in practice and expression has led to deplorable moral and physical results.

The proletarian school children are drafted into the "Young Communist International" centred at Moscow to unite the youth of the world, and this is organically connected with the Red Trade Union International that now numbers over 15 000,000 workers, and also with the Communist International, "a mighty force that reaches round the world"—both under the Third Moscow International. To revolutionise on the one hand trade unions, on the other children's groups in every nation, is its chief work. At Moscow last June there assembled 150 young delegates representing forty countries and over a million members, and there Trotsky directed that special attention must be paid to the children in the Colonies and in the native races of the Near East—a direct attack on the British Empire.

The National Political League is organising over the whole country a move to put an end to the menace and save British children. The Hon. Gideon Murray, M.P., and certain other M.P.'s, including Major Boyd Carpenter, Mr. J. C. Gould, Captain E. C. Loseby, and Colonel Wilfred Ashley, are taking strong action in Parliament to obtain legislation, and have the backing of a keen public opinion.

PATENT OFFICE METHODS.

Considerable discussion has arisen lately in several quarters as to the delay occasioned in obtaining the grant of Letters Patent. There is no doubt that this exists, and there are several reasons to account for it. In the first place the Patents and Designs Act of 1919 increased the time within which complete specifications might be lodged after provisional specifications had been filed from six months to nine months with a possible extension of a further month on payment of fees. Although this should not affect the time taken by examiners in giving the results of their official searches it nevertheless usually increases the time taken for the grant of a patent because inventors often take advantage of the longer period allowed for filing their complete specifications. Some are not aware that this is unnecessary, and if desired they may file a complete specification at any time after the provisional has been lodged provided it is deposited within the period named. An inventor often has his invention thoroughly worked out at the provisional stage, but in order to secure an early date he does not wish to delay matters, for the preparation of what may be elaborate drawings. Under these circumstances he would be well advised to file a provisional specification, and then begin at once the preparation of his drawings and complete specification, lodging the necessary documents at the Patent Office as soon as they are ready. In practice, examiners deal with applications as regards making the search as far as they possibly can in the order in which they are received, but unquestionably variations take place when many applications are outstanding near the date of acceptance. It is certainly found that these are given precedence, perhaps because if this were not done, an application might very well be allowed to lapse or have to be post-dated, with the attendant disadvantage that someone might have arrived at the same invention at a date between the filing of the provisional specification and the date given on post-dating. The number of applications lodged in the Patent Office has materially increased in recent years, whilst the war necessarily had the effect of decreasing the examining staff. It is likely that the reduced staff will be increased in the near future.—Engineering.

HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide-table given below has been compiled at the National Almanac Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsui during the years 1909-8

The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty Chart, which has been found to be 4 feet inches below mean sea-level

To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 3 feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamont Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 fee 4 inches to the height given in the table.

July 28 to August 3.

Peels Off Corns Between Toes

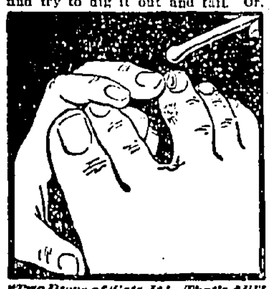
The Great Corn Loosener of the Age. Never Fails. Painless.

A corn mashed, squeezed and crushed all day long, in between two toes! You can try the desperate way and try to dig it out and fail. Or,



"Two Drops of 'Gets-It,'—That's All!"

you can try the sensible, peaceful, painless, easy way and use "Gets-It." It is easy for you with "Gets-It" to remove corns in places difficult to reach. "Gets-It" is a liquid—a wonderful painless formula—it has never been successfully imitated. It settles on the corn, and dries immediately. Instead of digging out the corn, you peel it out painlessly. There is no sticky plaster that does not remain in position, no salve that irritates or rubs off. You reach the corn easily with the little glass rod in the cork of every "Gets-It" bottle. It does not hurt the true flesh. Try it, walk comfortably and smile! It is a blessing; never fails.

"Gets-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at all druggists and stores. Mf'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, U. S. A.
